Barclay on Colossians 2:2

“Paul prays that their hearts may be encouraged. The word which he uses is parakalein. Sometimes that word means to comfort, sometimes to exhort; but always behind it there is the idea of enabling a person to meet some difficult situation bravely and with confidence. One of the Greek historians uses it in a most interesting and thought-provoking way. There was a Greek regiment which had lost heart and was utterly dejected. The general sent a leader to talk to it to such purpose that courage was reborn and a body of dispirited men became fit again for heroic action. That is what parakalein means here. It is Paul’s prayer that the church may be filled with that courage which can cope with any situation.”
